

2011 Seminar Series

Assoc Prof Darryl Jones

Deputy Director, Environmental Futures Centre, Griffith University

Overcoming the road barrier: Learning from the European approach

Although the ecological impact of roads has become a major issue around the world, the field is very much in its infancy in Australia. In Europe, however, structures to 'increase infrastructure permeability' in evidence everywhere. France, for example, has over 160 massive fauna overpasses; Australia has five! Why the difference and what can we learn from the European approach?

Thursday 24th February
12:30pm – 2.00pm

Nathan Campus
Bray Centre N54_2.02

Light refreshments will be served.