

Urban Research Program

2008 Seminar Series

Dr David Benassi

Poverty and Inequality in Italy — a comparative perspective —

The distribution of income and poverty in Italy is marked by territorial difference. Italy's unique socio-economic structure, deeply rooted in its history, is explored with reference to other European countries and to Australia.

David Benassi is senior lecturer in economic and urban sociology at the university of Milano Bicocca (Italy). His main research interests are poverty and inequality, welfare policies and social change.

Wednesday 20th August 2008

12.15 p.m. - 1.30 p.m.

Nathan Campus - Room N55 1.12