

Fifth National Justice Modelling Workshop

Queensland College of Art, South Bank

Brisbane, Queensland

Date Claimer

Justice Modelling @ Griffith (JMAG) and Queensland Government will be hosting the Fifth National Justice Modelling Workshop on 12-13 July 2010.

Workshop Themes

The workshop will include presentations examining how various research methodologies and advanced computational and analytical techniques have been used to inform decision making in social and justice organisations.

Previous workshops have included presentations on how simulation, spatial, temporal, trajectory, policy, economic, and resource allocation models have assisted decision-making.

The workshop will also provide a forum for participants to network with other practitioners, researchers and policy makers who are interested in the development and use of models to provide an evidence base for decisions in justice organisations.

Call for Papers

Call for Papers closes 30 April 2010. To register your interest, please contact the Workshop Administrator.

Who Should Attend

- Policy makers
- Government personnel interested in modelling or evidenced based policy
