THE WORLD leaves no stone unturned, no image censored, no spectre hidden, no gaping jaw undrooled. For many years eX de Medici, from a lounge chair in the political capital of Canberra, has photographed news images taken off TV screens as they circulate the globe, morphing between information, propaganda and advertising. Be prepared for a force majeure of biblical proportions as eX investigates power, its symbolism and various guises.

Please note, there will be no 'opening party' for this project.
