

Short biography

Kathleen Daly is Professor of Criminology and Criminal Justice, Griffith University (Brisbane).

She writes on gender, race, crime, and justice; and on restorative, Indigenous, and international criminal justice. Her book, Gender, Crime, and Punishment (1994, Yale University Press) received the Michael Hindelang award from the American Society of Criminology. With Lisa Maher, she co-edited Criminology at the Crossroads: Feminist Readings in Crime and Justice (1998, Oxford University Press); and with Andrew Goldsmith and Mark Israel, Crime and Justice: A Guide to Criminology (2006, Lawbook Company). First based in the United States, she travelled to Australia in 1995 as a Senior Fulbright Scholar to study restorative justice. From 1998 to 2006, she received three Australian Research Council (ARC) grants to research restorative justice and the race/gender politics of new justice practices. In 2008, she launched an international project on innovative responses to sexual violence; and in 2009, as co-PI with Elena Marchetti and Jackie Huggins, a project on sentencing Indigenous partner violence in Australia, both funded by the ARC. In addition to books and edited volumes, she has published over 75 articles in journals, law reviews, and books. She is a Fellow of the Academy of the Social Sciences in Australia, and immediate past President of the Australian and New Zealand Society of Criminology (2005-09).
