

Urban Research Program

2009 Seminar Series

Professor Brendan Gleeson

Urban research going forward: More time, less space

This seminar will examine the implications for urban research of the present economic, if not social, crisis. New opportunities for research previously excluded by the hegemony of neo-liberalism will be explored.

Brendan Gleeson is the Director of the Urban Research Program. His latest book is Australian Heartlands: making space for hope in the suburbs (Allen & Unwin)

Wednesday 4th February

12.15 p.m. - 1.30 p.m.

Nathan campus - Room N55 1.12