Edition 1: Insecurity in the New World Order ISBN 0 7333 1331 0

Leading writers explore how the insecurity of new world order has changed Australia.

"Weighty, cheeky, elegant, sceptical and readable," Sydney Morning Herald

Edition 2: Dreams of Land ISBN 0 7333 1350 7

Land is at the heart of Australian dreams: the source of wealth and security, spirituality and belonging. The dreams continue to touch us all, even as they become more elusive.

"Its daring is admirable," The Courier-Mail

Edition 3: Webs of Power ISBN 0 7333 1386 8

The internet has changed the way we think. Networks are the new webs of power. Griffith REVIEW explores the way mates, nodes and cells exercise power and influence.

"Bursting with ideas," The Age

Edition 4: Making Perfect Bodies ISBN 0 7333 1433 3

The quest for a perfect body has become the obsession of our age. From genetics to extreme body makeovers, the convergence of science and popular culture in pursuit of perfection goes to the heart of who we are and what we might be.

"Riveting," The Canberra Times

Shortlisted for the Queensland Premier's
Literary Awards 2004

Edition 5: Addicted to Celebrity ISBN 0 7333 1453 8

Who and what can you believe? The media is dominated by celebrity, swamped by lies and awash with propaganda. Addicted to Celebrity explores our fascination with celebrity and its corrosive influence and goes inside the world of news and spin in search of fragile truths.

"...outstanding new writing about topical subjects," - Readings Newsletter
