Taiwan Program areas of focus:
Health promotion Training and capacity Building

Health promotion training & capacity building
Apart from training courses offered in Taiwan, in June 2004, the Centre offered a training program in health promotion program planning and practices for 18 health practitioners from the Bureau of Health Promotion. The program then has posed great influence on the Bureau’s forthcoming policies on health promotion and healthy settings projects such as:

- Healthy cities and communities
- Health promotion program planning and development
- From needs assessment to policy development
- Health promotion Strategies and Practices

Prof Yingwei Wang and health promotion training course participants from the Taiwan National Bureau of Health Promotion