The Centre for Work, Organisation and Wellbeing and the Department of Management invites you to a seminar

Choosing a ‘Hot’ Topic in International HRM

Where: N63_2.04 (Nathan Campus)
When: Tuesday 10th June – 10.30am

Academic researchers are in constant search for a hot research topic that has the potential for long-term impact. Prof Harvey will discuss the characteristics of such topics in the domain of global strategic HRM (GSHRM). He will identify the evolution and basic dimensions of GSHRM issues and highlight some of his current research interests/directions, such as boundary spanning, knowledge management, the ‘impaired’ manager, bullying, role of curiosity and impact of dual-career couples in global organisations. He will also discuss the developments and future research directions in some of his own pioneering and ground breaking concepts in IHRM, such as in-patriation and global leader multiple IQ map.
