Do you want direct access to talented students?

With Griffith University’s Industry Affiliates Program, you can tap into tomorrow’s talent today. Opening your business to new ideas and even discovering a valuable asset along the way.

The IAP is a work-integrated learning program that places talented final year students from Science, Environment, Engineering and Technology into the workplace.

Griffith’s IAP offers industry direct access to final year students who are able to work at a graduate level. And, we get a chance to engage students in a project we create.

Through the IAP we can attract and retain graduates, who at the completion of their placement are already aligned with our processes and work culture.

It means we can put their enthusiasm and fresh perspective to work for us while providing experience and training.

And to ensure project success is achieved, Griffith University manages the program and tracks student progress.

We get the opportunity to put our classroom theory into practice. And gain experience working on real projects in our industry.

And you get the opportunity to attract and retain emerging professionals that are passionate about what they do.

So, do you want direct access students who will bring a fresh perspective to your team?

If you’re ready to tap into tomorrow’s talent talk to the Industry Affiliates Program today.
