INTRODUCTION..

"Happy people are productive people."

Recent research shows that having fun in the workplace can significantly improve productivity and performance. This research provides evidence that:

Happy Employees = Happy Customers = Better Bottom Line

It must be said that I am not advocating that workplaces be turned into a "circus". There is a time for play and a time to work hard. We need to get the balance right, and ensure that we build in some fun time that is appropriate and not distracting from core business.

The purpose of this e-book is to provide you with a range of strategies to help you have some fun at work.

It must be remembered that there is no "one best way" to have fun, as every organisation, and every individual within that organisation, will have a different concept of what fun is. Many of the activities in this book have been designed in the form of checklists. Pick out the ideas and activities which suit you, your workplace and your people.

There is also a strong correlation between planning for fun and actually having fun. To have an ongoing positive effect you need to ensure you have an action plan in place to keep the fun going all year round.

I hope you enjoy Workplace Fun Ideas and find it useful. If you would like clarification of any of the ideas, or if you would like to know more about my products and programs please email me at david@davidkoutsoukisltd.com

Enjoy! Kind regards

Finding Fun in a Land Far, Far Away

The first step towards having fun at work

The first step towards having fun in the workplace is to take yourself to a Land Far, Far Away. WHAT? I hear you ask.

Yes, just like the movie Shrek, take yourself to a land “FAR FAR” Away.

Let me explain. To have fun at work you need to fulfill the:

Fun Attitude Requirement, i.e. Be in the mood for some fun.
Fun Ammunition Requirement, i.e. Have some “fun up your sleeve.”

Getting to the Land Far, Far Away:

1. Have a Fun Attitude.

The fun attitude is up to you – go to work with a twinkle in your eye and some spring in your step in anticipation of what fun you might have with customers and colleagues.

2. Have some Fun Ammunition ready. Start collecting ideas and resources for having fun at work. Ideas from the “Fun at Work Funstar” on the following pages will give you heaps of Fun Ammunition and suggest some places you might fire it!

FAIR PLAY..

Guidelines for having Fun at Work

Workplace fun and humour should be:

1. Appropriate for the workplace
2. Inclusive – the fun should be shared with as many people as possible
3. Sensitive to how people might react

Workplace fun and humour should not:

4. Be racist, sexist or vulgar
5. Offend anyone
6. Make fun of anyone
7. Be sarcastic
8. Detract from core business
9. Damage the reputation of individuals
10. Damage the reputation of the organisation

And remember that what is fun for one person is not necessarily fun for another. Recognise and value the fact that there will be a diversity of fun styles.
"People rarely succeed unless they are having fun in what they are doing."
Dale Carnegie

The following pages outline strategies for having fun at work under headings from the eight points of the “Fun at Work Funstar”. They are presented in checklist format so that you can go through and pick out the activities which take your fancy and suit your workplace.

Have fun!

1. Fun Work Environment

“Time flies when you’re having fun... and time’s fun when you’re having flies!”
Kermit the Frog

Think about how you might be able to add some fun to your physical work environment. Keep in mind what it is appropriate for your workplace and does not detract from your core business. Here are some ideas:

Personalise your Workspace
- Create your own home away from home
- Fun pictures and posters
- Photos
- Fun mouse mats
- Amusing screen savers
- Mobiles
- Music (if appropriate)
- Burning oils
- Put a small basketball hoop over the bins

Put Up Fun Signs
- Put a sign on your photocopier that says “Temporarily in Working Order”
- Put a “Caution Wet Floor sign” on a carpeted area
- In the gents toilet –“We aim to keep this toilet clean, your aim would help”
- Above a toilet roll holder “Bachelor of ... degree, please take one”
- Label all the computers in your office with names such as Margaret, Bruce, Damien.
- Put flashing Christmas tree lights around special notices to get attention
- Put a sign on the photocopier that says, "Voice Activated! Speak loudly into the panel."

Make the Staff Room/Break Areas User Friendly
- Make the staff room/areas happy places and user friendly. Make it a place where you’re not constantly reminded about work.
- Humour board for jokes, funny pictures etc
- Coke machine
- Cappuccino/ Percolator for coffee
- Water Cooler
- Personalised staff coffee cups
- Exercise room/gym
- Inspirational posters or pictures

©David Koutsoukis 2006
- Staff photo board
- Suggestion box for staff fun ideas
- Staff calendar Mr January, Miss February etc
- Recreation areas or equipment – pool tables, darts, table tennis
- Humour library – fun books, tapes, CD’s, videos
- The “Toy Box” – props and gadgets (eg rubber chicken) to keep people amused
- Caricatures of staff members

“All for fun and fun for all!”

2. THE DAILY DOSE OF FUN™

“He who does not get fun and enjoyment out of life every day... needs to reorganise his life.”

George Matthew Adams

Imagine if everyone in your workplace or organisation had one piece of fun to share with others each day. Wouldn't that lead to lots of fun! The Daily Dose of Fun concept encourages you to have at least one piece of fun to share with friends and colleagues every day.

Here are some examples of “Fun Ammunition” you can use daily:

1. Fun quotes
2. Fun facts (trivia)
3. Jokes and one liners
4. Brain teasers
5. Lateral thinking puzzles
6. Funny pictures
7. Optical illusions
8. Hand held puzzles
9. Props and gadgets
10. Lollies or candy

I have two books full of “Fun Ammunition” in my Daily Dose of Fun series. Each book has a piece of fun for every day of the year that you can share around in a number of ways. You can simply share them with your colleagues, text them from your mobile phone or use them in your newsletters and emails.

The first two titles in the series include “366 Fun Quotes and Observations on Life” and “366 Fun Facts You Never Needed to Know”. Check out the last page for details on how to order them.

The following pages have a few samples from some the books to get your started.

3. THE WEEKLY DOSE OF FUN..

“Fun is not a four letter word.”
Rocky DeKoven

Have some regular weekly fun activities (typically on a Friday morning tea, but dependent upon the nature of your workplace. Have a range of fun activities that people will look forward to such as lucky draws and fun awards.

Weekly Newsletter
- Have a weekly (or monthly) newsletter for staff with lots of fun stuff for staff and/or about. Alternatively add a regular fun and humour section in your “serious” newsletter.

Weekly Lucky Draws
At a given time each week (eg Friday morning break) have a lucky draw. People who want to be in the lucky draw contribute a dollar or two per week and this goes toward the prizes. Here are some variations.
- Lucky Numbers – each staff member is allocated the same lucky number each week. Draw numbers out of a bingo barrel – allocate prizes. (You can get cheap bingo barrels from toy shops)
- Raffle books (sometimes called “check tickets”)
- Chocolate (spinning) wheel with lucky numbers on it
- Lucky playing card – people are allocated a playing card instead of a lucky number and a “lucky card” is drawn from a deck.
- 100 Club (Have a 100 people in the competition)
- Cow Pat Lotto (for agricultural regions) – a cow paddock is drawn into a grid with numbered squares. People draw lucky numbers. The cow is let out on Monday morning and the first grid square it does a poop in is the lucky number!
- Crazy Cash - guess last two digits of $ note
- Beer Hunter / Frog Hunter – a winner is drawn in a lucky draw. That person then gets to pick a number “out of a hat”. Whatever number they draw is the number of beer cans, (or chocolate frogs or whatever you want to use) they win.
- Bubbles & Bucks – the prizes are either champagne & cash
- Bingo/Keno

One-Off “Different” Lucky Draws
Put lucky numbers on interesting things and then sell them, give them or fire them out to people. Here are some “different” ways of allocating lucky numbers
- Ping pong ball gun
- Sling shots with ping pong balls
Lucky Games
- Chase the Ace / Jag the Joker
Get a pack of cards and make up a board with the 52 cards on it or just use the pack. Each week people can enter "Chase the Ace" by buying a lucky ticket, eg $1 which goes into "the kitty". For your dollar you get a lucky raffle ticket. All lucky tickets bought in one week are put into a barrel and a ticket drawn out and who ever has their lucky ticket drawn out gets to "Chase the Ace". That person draws a card off the board and if they pick the Ace of Spades they get the jackpot (whatever's in the kitty). If they don't draw the Ace the money jackpots until the next week. You may allocate consolation prizes, eg King gets $10, Queens gets $5. If you want to raise money you don't jackpot all the money - some goes into the fundraising account. As the weeks go by and the jackpot builds up more and more people go in it so they don't miss out! You need to watch security of the board - you might want to staple the cards into place - or just use a deck of cards and shuffle them each week. Once the Ace goes off you can start again with a new deck.

- Pick Your Nose
You make up a board and attach to it, say, 32 rubber noses or laminated clip art pictures of noses. You have a sign for the board that says "Pick Your Nose!". On the back of each nose is a lucky number. People buy a raffle ticket and go into a lucky draw. If their number is drawn out they have to "pick their nose". Each lucky number on the back of the nose can either represent a dollar value, eg number 8 gets $8 prize, or you can allocate the numbers a prize, eg number 6 gets bottle of wine etc.

- Thank Your Lucky Stars - star sign raffle.
Have a container with 12 ping pong balls in it. Each ping pong ball has one of the star signs written on it. Some one draws a ball out. Everyone in the group with that star sign gets a prize, eg a chocolate.

Have fun prizes
- Champagne, wine, special lager or other
- Cash
- Chook (chicken)
- Meat Pack
- $2 shop prizes – novelties
- Booby prizes
- Boss's parking spot

Syndicates and Fun Bets
- Betting syndicate
- Lotto syndicate
- Race horse syndicate
- Shares
- Football tipping
- Baseball tipping
- Basketball tipping
- Soccer pools

Reality TV Sweepstakes
Put in some money, draw a contestant. At the end of the TV series whoever has drawn the winner of the show gets the prize money.

- Survivor
- Big Brother
- Bachelor
- Bachelorette
- Idol Series

Fines
- Have a fines session once per week where people are fined token amount for doing silly things – run by the “Fines Master”. The money goes into a kitty which is spent at a staff social function.
- Swear box

Fun Awards for Doing Something Good:
Make up some nomination slips so that any staff member can nominate a colleague for doing something good. Have a box in your staff area to put the nominations in. Draw one nomination out each week and that person gets the award. Type up all the nominations and display them in the staff area as a “Hall of Fame.” Here are some ideas for titles/prizes:

- Champagne Award
- Certificate of Appreciation
- Scratchie (lottery ticket) Award
- Good Guy Award
- Shining Light Award

The Shining Light Award is a torch. Whoever wins the award has to shine the torch on the next winner.

- The WAM (Worth A Mention) Award
- Employee of the Month
- Customer Service Award
Fun Awards for Doing Something Silly:
Make up a fun trophy which is given out each week. Whoever wins the award has to find someone to give it to the following week. Make sure that there are guidelines so that people aren’t offended if they get an award. Take photos of the winners with their trophies and create a “Hall of Shame” in your staff area. Here are some ideas for titles/trophies:
- Wood Duck Award
- Bummer Award
- Hold the Snake (Rubber snake)
- Nerd Award
- Toilet Seat Award
- Silly Sausage Award
- Dunny Brush
- Drip of the Week

For someone who needs a bit of TLC:
- The “Care (Teddy) Bear” – given out to people (privately) who might be feeling a bit down

Regular Activities
- Aerobics/fitness club
- Liar dice
- Card games
- Sports events
- Worst Joke Wednesday – joke telling competition
- Bring and share lunches

Friday Afternoon Drinks
Many organisations have a regular social event at the end of the week. Why not come up with a fun name for it and have special themes and activities?
- Thank God It’s Friday! Club
- Hey! Hey! It’s Friday!
- Choir Practice
- MOP (Monthly Office Party)
- POETS club or Bush POETS Club
  (Pi Off Early Tomorrow’s Saturday)
- Make up badges
- Invite other businesses or organizations
- Have some staff initiated entertainment - take turns to provide music, food, tricks, jokes or other fun stuff
4. SPECIAL DAYS AND ACTIVITIES.

“Deep play precedes deep work”
Jeremy Rifkin

Make a fuss of special days and activities. Get staff into a happy frame of mind by putting up decorations, organising food and by doing activities that fit in with a fun theme.

Special Days
- Staff birthdays – have cake, party hats and horns
- Australia Day – 26 January
- National Day (of your country)
- Valentine’s Day – 14 February
- Bastille Day – 14 July
- St Patrick’s Day – 17 March
- Easter
- Fourth July
- Christmas in July
- Halloween – 31 October
- Black Friday
- Staff Appreciation Day

- TV Appeal
- Salvation Army Appeal
- Community focus
- Red Cross Appeal
- Jeans for Genes
- Red Nose Day
- Church Appeals
- Daffodil Day
- Royal Flying Doctor Service appeal
- Tree planting
- Staff fun run

End of Year Awards
Awards for doing something silly:
- Wood Duck
- Silly Sausage
- The Royal Order of the Dunny Brush
- The Royal Order of the Toilet Seat
- The Farn and Duck Award (spoonerism)
- Mug of the Year – they get a mug of course

Award for doing something silly at Christmas:
- The Christmas Turkey

Award for the oldest person on staff:
- The Longevity Award
- Wheel Chair Award
- Stone Henge Award

Awards for appreciation:
- Certificate of Commendation
- Certificate of Appreciation
- The Champagne Award
- The Crownie Award

Fun Activities (before, during or to finish a meeting)
These activities can also be used on training days

☐ Two truths and a lie
At the beginning a staff meeting have a "Two Truths and a Lie" session as a team building activity. People take turns at standing up and telling three things about themselves - two are true, one is a lie. People have to try and guess which one is the lie. Have some small prizes for people who guess correctly. If you have a large staff, break up into smaller groups.

☐ Joke Popcorn.
Everyone has to think of a very short joke or riddle. On the command mingle everyone mingles around the room. On the command connect people connect up with another person and swap jokes. Do it 3 or 4 times.

☐ Buzzword bingo
Draw up bingo cards with a list of phrases that are commonly used in meetings. Eg: can I get back to you on that, touch base, game plan, key objectives, mindset, core business, pushing the envelope, mission statement, seat of your pants.

☐ Buzzword pegs (clothes pins -for US readers).
At a staff meeting: If someone mentions a banned buzzword such as "strategic", "empower", "communication" or "pedagogy" they stick a peg on their collar. Three pegs means they're not allowed to speak any more.

☐ All those in favour, make a noise
At your next staff meeting when you have to vote on something: all those in favour hold your nose, make a noise with clickers, noise blowers.

☐ Well done dance
Do the special "Well Done Dance” if someone has done something good.

☐ Staff names crossword
Create a staff crossword puzzle and give humourous clues about people. Visit www.alsoftpublishing.com/download.shtml for a crossword generator.

☐ Scategories
People have to write down as many words as they can on a given topic (eg countries, cars) starting with the letter "x" or whatever letter you choose

☐ "Who said that?"
Compile a list of sayings that certain staff members often use. People have to guess who they belong to.
Modelling Balloons
Get a couple of packets of modelling balloons from the supermarket. Get people to create an animal or an object. Give a prize (bottle of champers or something) for best creation.

People Poker.
Everyone gets a playing card and on your command people have to get together to make up different poker hands as you call them out. First group of people to you with the hand eg full house, four of a kind, win a prize, eg chocolate, $2 dollar shop gizmo

Party Popper Quiz.
Give everyone a party popper. Make up some quiz questions. The first one to pop their popper gets to answer the question. If they are correct they get a prize.

TV/Movie Theme Quiz.
Get a CD with TV/Movie themes. Play the tune – first one to guess it wins a prize.

Animal Noises.
You need to make up some cards with pairs of animals - eg 2 frogs, 2 sheep etc. Everyone gets a card. Everyone puts on a blindfold. On your command they have to match up with their partner by making the sound of that animal. First couple of pairs to join win a prize.

Heads and Tails – Two Up.
Quiz night favourite. Get two coins (20c best). People try to predict which way the coins will land by placing two hands on heads for two heads, two hands on bottom for two tails, one hand on head and one hand on tail for head and a tail. Throw the coins. Those people who predict the wrong combination are eliminated. Repeat the process until you have one person left – give them a prize.

Bingo - you can get cheap bingo sets from toy shops.

Finding Nemo.
Download pictures of Nemo from the internet. Cut them out and hide them around the venue. Tell people to Find Nemo and give out prizes if they do.
- Mobile Phone Competition.
  Give everyone your mobile phone number. First one to ring you gets a prize. Variation – get them to text you. First text message to you gets a prize.

- Dart fun.
  Set up a dart board or pin up board. Blow up balloons and put treats inside them, eg chocs, scratchie tickets. Pin balloons to dart board. Party goers get one shot with a dart to pop balloons and win prizes. Keep going 'till all the prizes are gone.

- Peg panic.
  Buy a few packets of pegs. People pair up. One is the pegger, one is the peggee. On your command the pegger has to place all the pegs on his or her peggee partner – not on hair or clothing. Play off two pairs at a time. The winning pair go on to the next round, the losers are out. Keep going until you have a grand final. Winning pair gets a prize.

- Meeting awards
  Prizes for best tie, best jargon, shortest speech, quickest answer etc.

“Staff Revue” – each department has to do a skit
Overnight camp

Seek Out Talent
- Source out talent within workplace and get them to do the odd performance
- Red Faces talent quest

Other ideas
- No shop talk pegs
At social functions have some pegs (clothes pins) on hand. Anyone who "talks shop" has to put a peg on their collar. Three pegs means they have to do some pre-determined task such as making an apology speech, pass around food or doing the dishes.

“It’s more fun when you’re not the only one having it”
The Oaqui (from Bernie DeKoven)
8. CORPORATE SENSE OF HUMOUR.

Let employees, colleagues and customers know that the company has a sense of humour

Obviously the type of humour you can use will be dependent upon the nature of your organisation. You don't want to turn your workplace into a circus or detract from core business.

Here are some ideas that might work for you.

- Fun staff photos – take photos of staff which look like they’re having fun. Frame them and put them up in the reception area
- Use caricatures of staff members instead of photos
- Use fun quotes on your email signatures
- Fake policies – change some of your workplace policies to make outrageous statements – distribute them to employees and see who picks them up. Eg Chocolate Policy – “Thou must eat chocolate on Fridays”
- Have fun little props and gadgets lying around for customers to play with
- Have a Fun Fax File - a clear sheet folder with all the fun faxes (now emails) that come through the office – keep it clean!
- Put novelties around that will start up conversations eg the fake foot that sticks out of the filing cabinet
- Put a small basketball hoop over the bins
- Get each department to come up with a logo or mascot and display them
- Humour in correspondence. Use humorous quips and quotes in your memos, reports, brochures, letters, emails or newsletters. Why not have a fun and humour section in your newsletter and just use the quotes, jokes and ideas from this e-book or from www.funman.com.au
- Have funny names for rooms, eg the “Storeroom of Doom”, the “Sleep Generator” (the conference room)
- No boring speeches policy. Make sure that anyone who has to give a presentation to staff must include some kind of fun or humour.
- Make up some funny signs for everyday purposes eg, seen on an airline baggage carousel: “Free carousel rides – baggage only”, in an ear piercing salon: “Ears pierced – while you wait”
- Use cartoon characters on signs

WACKY WORKPLACE FUN IDEAS...

If you dare!

Here are some crazy ideas for you to try at work. Obviously, many of them are tongue-in-cheek, but some of you might give them a go! Bear in mind that some of these might contravene the guidelines for having fun at work - we don't want to offend any colleagues or customers!

Here are some of my favourites:

- Play wheelie chair basketball using the rubbish bins for goals.
- Play indoor baseball or cricket using a rolled up newspaper and a ball of paper.
- Page yourself over the intercom. Don't disguise your voice.
- Every time someone asks you to do something, ask if they want fries with that.
- Put your rubbish bin on your desk and label it "In."
- Put decaf in the coffee maker for 3 weeks. Once everyone has gotten over their caffeine addictions, switch to Espresso.
- As often as possible, skip rather than walk.
- Name all your pens and insist that meetings can't begin until they're all present.
- Schedule meetings for 4:14 p.m. or 2:37 p.m., or 10:16 a.m.
- Encourage your colleagues to join you in a little synchronized chair dancing.
- Determine how many cups of coffee are "too many."
- Decorate your office with pictures of Cindy Brady and Danny Partridge. Try to pass them off as your own children.
- Run a lap around the office at top speed.
While riding a lift, gasp dramatically every time the doors open.

While an office mate is out, move their chair into the lift.

In a colleague's diary, write in 10am: "See how I look in tights".

Hang a two-foot long piece of toilet roll from the back of your pants and act genuinely surprised when someone points it out.

Leave a message for a colleague that says "Please ring Mr Lyon on ... " (give them the number of the local zoo).

Walk around the office making noises like a bee. When people ask you why you're doing it say "I don't know, it just gives me a buzz."

Ask one of your colleagues if they would like you to do a good turn for them. When they say yes, stand up and turn around – with style!

Dart around the office suspiciously, while loudly humming the theme from "Mission Impossible."

Go into a storeroom, shut the door and wait a while, then yell loudly: "There's no toilet paper in here!"

Before making an announcement at a staff meeting or over the PA system sing. "Hey now, you'd better listen to me everyone of you Ogh!" (as in the Roy Orbison song "Working for the Man.")

Play Mary Had a Little Lamb on the touch pad of your telephone: 3212333 – 222 – 399 – 3212333 - 322321

See how loudly you can get people to talk on the phone by saying that you can only just hear them.

Send round an official looking memo from the IT department informing everybody that all the computers have now had 'Voicemaster' voice recognition software loaded. Then give instructions for installing the software, such as: say 'good morning/good afternoon' in a firm and clear voice to activate, etc.

Use a large banana to point at your presentation slides.
There is a strong correlation between planning for fun and actually having fun!

1. Create a position of responsibility – A "Director of Fun" or "Collegiality Coordinator" to "drive" a program of fun/team building for staff. Alternatively you could have a "Ministry of Fun" where workers take turns to facilitate the fun, eg. Sales Team could be the Ministry for the first 3 months of the year, Management – second three months and so on.

2. Allocate funds for fun & collegiality. You could also have an employee contribution scheme whereby management will match any funds raised by staff to put towards fun/team building/social activities.

3. Ministry of Fun meet to collaboratively plan and create a timeline of events.

4. Action Plan developed to ensure the fun actually happens (who does what, when, how, and what with?)

5. Evaluate the success of each of the activities. Could some become regular events?
Ob-la-di, ob-la-da Don't forget to have some fun!

Parody of the Beatles song. Revised lyrics by David Koutsoukis*

You're sitting down at work on a Monday morn
Thinking 'bout the jobs you have not done
You can't believe the holidays have come and gone
So you must tell yourself you've got to have some fun

Ob-la-di, ob-la-da life goes on yeah, don't forget to have some fun  x2

You're craving for your cuppa nearly smoko time
To the staffroom just as fast as you can trot
Where they talk about their problems and the waste of time
Well you must tell them there is something they forgot

Ob-la-di, ob-la-da life goes on yeah, don't forget to have some fun  x2

Has your sense of humour gone and taken away your smile?
You'd better go and find it 'cause you'll need it there
When you get back to work

The boss is getting cranky as he cracks his whip
And everything it seems is going wrong
You're feeling under pressure, you're about to flip
So you must crack a smile and come and sing this song

Ob-la-di, ob-la-da life goes on yeah, don't forget to have some fun  x2

Has your sense of humour gone and taken away your smile?
You'd better go and find it 'cause you'll need it there
When you get back to work

So bring your sense of humour when you come work
Think about the things you do and say
Get some laughter in the workplace, don't forget this song
Cos you must have yourself some fun along the way

Ob-la-di, ob-la-da life goes on yeah, don't forget to have some fun  x2

And if you want some fun, sing ob-la-di-bla-da
