AUSTRALIAN FEMINIST LAW JOURNAL
A Critical Legal Journal

CALL FOR PAPERS FOR GENERAL ISSUE
Volume 34, June 2011

General Editor – Judith Grbich

Deadline of April 14, 2011

The Australian Feminist Law Journal is seeking articles for publication for the next General Issue of the Journal, namely Volume 34, June 2011. The Journal seeks to focus upon scholarly research using critical feminist approaches to law and justice, broadly conceived. As a critical legal journal we publish research informed by critical theory, cultural and literary theory, jurisprudential, postcolonial and psychoanalytic approaches. Articles may range from longer, academic pieces from a critical perspective (which will be refereed) to shorter Praxis notes on issues confronting men and women in their interactions with the law. The length of an article is variable, but normally ranges from 8000 to 12,000 words. We particularly wish to encourage interdisciplinary and cross-disciplinary writing focusing on law. The AFLJ normally publishes a General Issue and a Special themes Issue each year: in 2011 volume 34 will be the General Issue. Early submission for Volume 34 before the deadline of April 14 is welcomed.

Praxis notes normally have a focus upon a local practice which will be of interest to readers, and may include empirical work or case analysis. Praxis notes are not normally refereed, although may be refereed at the request of an author and conditional upon a considerable academic content of high standard. The length of a note is variable, and depends upon the topicality and significance of the practise under scrutiny.

If you wish to discuss a proposed article or praxis note please contact the General Editor, Judith Grbich, email Judith.Grbich@bigpond.com. Articles should be submitted electronically to the General Editor, Judith Grbich.

Refereeing of Articles
The Australian Feminist Law Journal referees all manuscripts submitted for publication as an article and follows the double-blind refereeing procedure. Referees will be selected with expertise in the author’s area of scholarship. Authors are requested to place their name and affiliation on a separate page, and eliminate any self-identifying citation of one’s own work. The journal will not accept manuscripts for consideration which are already under consideration by another journal.

Manuscript Style and Presentation
The journal style should be followed as closely as possible, to eliminate delays at the time of printing where an incorrect style would necessitate changes. An electronic version of the journal style guide can be found on the AFLJ website: http://www.griffith.edu.au/law/australian-feminist-law-journal. Subscription enquiries may be forwarded to aflj@griffith.edu.au

The AFLJ is published by the Socio-Legal Research Centre, Griffith Law School, Griffith University and is available in all major UK, US and European University libraries and online with Informit, Heinonline, Proquest, and EBSCO.