The AJPA welcomes a new editorial team

Monday 25 August 2014: The Institute of Public Administration Australia (IPAA) today announced it had appointed a new editorial team for the Australian Journal of Public Administration (AJPA).

The AJPA is the premier public administration journal in Australasia and is committed to the study and practice of public administration, public management and policy making.

The new editorial team comprises of Professor Janine O’Flynn, Associate Professor Helen Dickinson, Professor Adrian Kay, Ms Maria Katsonis and Associate Professor Anne Tiernan.

“This new team brings a new vision for the AJPA that respects the long standing traditions of the journal while unlocking its rich content for new and existing readers,” said IPAA National President Terry Moran AC.

“I would like to thank outgoing editor Professor John Wanna for his leadership and personal commitment to the AJPA over the last 20 years. John’s vision has been instrumental in making the AJPA a valuable and respected journal of record for developments in public administration.”

The new editorial team hail from around Australia and bring specialist skills and expertise that will enhance the functioning of the journal, its reputation and its engagement with its various audiences.

Professor Janine O’Flynn and Associate Professor Helen Dickinson are based at the Melbourne School of Government, The University of Melbourne while Ms Maria Katsonis is a special advisor with the Department of Premier and Cabinet, Victoria. Professor Adrian Kay is based at the Crawford School of Public Policy, Australian National University and Associate Professor Anne Tiernan is based at the School of Government and International Relations, Griffith University. The AJPA will be housed in the Melbourne School of Government.

First published in 1937, the AJPA has influenced the theory and practice of public administration by publishing a range of perspectives and creating a rich archive of knowledge and debate.

AJPA publishes four issues a year with a total volume of 512 pages spread over the four issues. The journal is published by Wiley. The new team will begin editing the AJPA from the March 2015 issue.

The AJPA is available to all IPAA members as part of their membership benefits. More information on the AJPA is available here.

For interviews or further information please contact Jo Rose, 0417 771 055 or jo@nsw.ipaa.org.au