Pathways to Medicine

Our recent ‘Pathways to Medicine’ information evenings (at our Gold Coast and Nathan campuses) were both extremely well attended by students from a variety of schools.

Due to the busy nature of both events, we have created a website where all of the relevant information (including presentation notes) has been made available: www.griffith.edu.au/medicine

Should you have any further questions, please don’t hesitate to contact us by email: medscience@griffith.edu.au

Students dance for health and fitness
Teenagers from ten Logan secondary schools are learning hip-hop and street dance in a health promotion project to increase physical activity, promote self-esteem and celebrate youth culture.

The 10-week project, led by Griffith’s School of Public Health, is also a mechanism to engage with teens on related health issues such as good nutrition. The project will culminate with a street dance extravaganza at Griffith’s Logan campus on Wednesday, 20 August at 4pm.

University students in the Bachelor of Public Health are also participating in the program to experience a community-based, health promotion initiative. The Bachelor of Public Health offers majors in health promotion, nutrition and environmental health. The major in nutrition can also articulate into a two-year Master of Nutrition and Dietetics.
