IN RELATION TO THE CONTRIBUTION OF YOUR ARTICLE (“THE ARTICLE”)
ENTITLED:

[INSERT NAME OF ARTICLE]
BY: [INSERT NAME] (“you”)
OF: [INSERT ADDRESS]

WHICH WILL BE PUBLISHED IN THE GRIFFITH LAW REVIEW (“THE JOURNAL”)

In order to ensure both the widest dissemination and protection of material published in our Journal, we ask authors to grant Griffith University (“the University”) a licence to publish articles they contribute. In consideration of the publication of your Article in the Journal, you agree to the following:

1. You grant to the University a world-wide, non-exclusive, royalty-free, perpetual, irrevocable licence to:
   (a) produce and publish the Article in the Journal and any associated publications (including electronic publications);
   (b) sell the Article for profit or otherwise; and
   (c) sub-licence others to perform the acts set out in clause 1(a) or clause 1(b) on behalf of the University.

2. The University reserves the right to make such editorial changes as may be necessary to make the Article suitable for publication or as the University reasonably considers necessary to avoid infringing third party rights or law. The form, embellishment, quantity, manner of reproduction, publication, and advertising of the Article shall be at the University’s sole discretion. The University reserves the right not to proceed with publication for whatever reason.

3. You have the right to publish the Article elsewhere provided you seek the University’s prior written consent. The University will not unreasonably withhold its consent.

4. The University will attribute to you authorship of the Article. However, you acknowledge and agree that in giving your consent to publish, you also give consent to the University to infringe your moral rights (other than the right of attribution of authorship) as set out under the Copyright Act 1968 (Cth). You acknowledge and agree that the consent provided by you under this clause is a genuine consent given without duress or undue influence.

5. You warrant to the University that:
   (a) the Article is an original work;
   (b) you are either the sole owner of copyright in the Article including copyright for textual, audial or illustrative material OR you have the original copyright owner’s written permission to enter into this agreement and grant to the University the licence set out at clause 1 to publish the Article;
   (c) you have not granted any interest in the copyright by licence or otherwise to a third party to produce and publish the Article without the written consent of the University;
   (d) the article contains nothing which is defamatory, libellous, obscene or indecent;
   (e) where the Article was prepared jointly with other authors, you have been authorised by all co-authors to sign this agreement on their behalf; and
   (f) you have not breach the rights or interests of any third party in granting the licence under clause 1.
6. Without limiting any rights available to the University at general law, you indemnify the University against any loss, injury or damage (including any legal costs) incurred by the University as a result of the breach of warranties in clause 5.

7. You agree to waive all rights to royalties, fees or reproduction fees in respect of sales of the Article made by the University from the publication of the Article in the Journal or sale of the Article.

8. You agree to provide the University with a copy of this deed of agreement by way of electronic transmission by facsimile. You agree that the University can consider this facsimile copy as if it were an original of this Deed of Agreement and the University can rely on this facsimile copy accordingly in undertaking any actions in relation to the Article.

9. You agree that you are bound by the laws of the State of Queensland in relation to this Deed Poll and submit irrevocably and exclusively to these laws.
