

Julie McGillivray

Julie McGillivray

Healing our Wounds

This painting focuses on the healing qualities of nature - our land and water, our flora and fauna, if allowed, can nourish and heal our people, our communities and our country, physically, spiritually and emotionally. The shattered shards represent the destructive nature of commercialism and industrialization within our communities and surrounds, polluting and destroying the environment in general.

