

Dear

I hope that you and your families are safe and well, and trust you are coping with the changing circumstances around the COVID-19 pandemic.

As you are aware, our staff have been working incredibly hard to transition all lectures and classes to online/remote delivery. In response to the Prime Minister's conference last night, Griffith is now also moving all but our essential services online in order to protect the health of both staff and students.

This means the following will apply on all Griffith campuses:

- Student-facing services (except computer labs and Health and Medical Services) will move to online support from Tuesday morning onwards. You can still come onto campus to use these services but, when you do, please remember to observe social distancing.
- No further classes will be held on campus from Wednesday morning onwards.
- Students involved in on-campus research projects should liaise with their academic supervisors.

Student support services

You can access a wide range of our services online - including counselling, financial support and career consultations - that you may ordinarily access on campus. Visit the student support website for more information.

Student Connect

Student inquiries can be accessed via online chat access assistance via online chat and Ask Us (email) and phone. See Student Connect for details.

Health and Medical Services

The Griffith Health and Medical Service continues to operate on Nathan and Gold Coast campuses. Student and staff flu vaccinations, student immunisations in preparation for clinical placements and telehealth consultations are available to patients.

Parking

We recognise that these changes will mean that those of you who have parking permits will not be getting the same value from them and will let you know later this week about arrangements for permits while the campus is closed.

Stay connected

It's important to remain connected while you study remotely. We want you to feel that you are still part of the Griffith community even though you cannot come to campus and we are working on a range of ways to support you in doing so. To help you stay involved with the Griffith community and your peers, visit the staying connected website. You can try everything from chatting with other students, to volunteering online, to staying fit.

We know that a number of you are struggling with the changes that have been brought to your life through the impact of COVID-19. The Griffith Online Health and Wellness Centre provides access to counselling services on campus, as well as other support resources. For counselling after hours and on weekends, call Crisis Support Service on 1300 785 442 or text 0488 884 146.

As previously mentioned, if you are feeling unwell, please do not come to campus. You should contact 13HEALTH (13 432 584) or see your GP.

Professor Carolyn Evans
Vice Chancellor and President
Griffith University

This email was sent by Griffith University
Nathan | Gold Coast | Mt Gravatt | Logan | South Bank
Privacy policy | Copyright matters | Contact us
CRICOS Provider - 00233E

Having trouble reading this email? View it online.