In August 2015 the Parliamentary Communities, Disability Services and Domestic and Family Violence Prevention Committee published its report into the adequacy of existing financial protections for Queensland’s seniors. The submission by the research team for social workers in hospitals and staff in residential care settings was cited in the report Elder Abuse—A National Legal Response. The researchers supported a position paper on improving financial management arrangements with older people and their families and/ or carers. Findings on wills and transfers were disseminated through a web based short report, a national presentation to Public Trustees and a symposium “Having the Last Word” (2015) resulted in considerable media engagement in Queensland and nationally that raised public awareness of the risks of abuse associated with informal financial arrangements.
