

Healthy volunteers are needed for an investigational vaccine study

We are conducting a research study to determine whether an investigational respiratory syncytial virus (RSV) vaccine can be given at the same time as an annual flu vaccine

This study is enrolling people who:

- Are 65 years of age or older
- Are generally healthy or have stable chronic medical conditions
- Do not have a history of severe side effects from or allergic reactions to vaccines
- Have not had a flu vaccine in the last six months

Eligible participants will be reimbursed for their time. Scan the QR code below for more information.
