

Professor Graham Jones

Professor Jones was the foundation Director of the Gold Coast College of Advanced Education (GCCAE) which became a University College of Griffith University in 1990.

Professor Jones took a leading role in the development of the GCCAE, focussing on courses that met the needs of the local community such as business, education and hospitality.

Following the reforms to the tertiary sector of the late 1980's, Professor Jones played an instrumental role in the amalgamation of the GCCAE with Griffith University and was appointed as the inaugural Pro Vice Chancellor and Director of the University College.

In 1991, Professor Jones left the University to become a Professor of Mathematics Education at the Illinois State University.

The "Graham Jones" building was named after him in 1998, in recognition of his contributions to the development of the Gold Coast campus. Graham continues to support the University today.
